What Is YES

People-to-people exchange is the key pillar and powerful enabler to deepen and expand cross-cultural understanding within Overseas-China relations. The initiative provides a nurturing environment for young people to move and see the world. The “Young Envoys Scholarship”(YES) program came into being to support this powerful initiative, and the China Education Association for International Exchange (CEAIE) is serving as the primary coordinating entity of YES program.

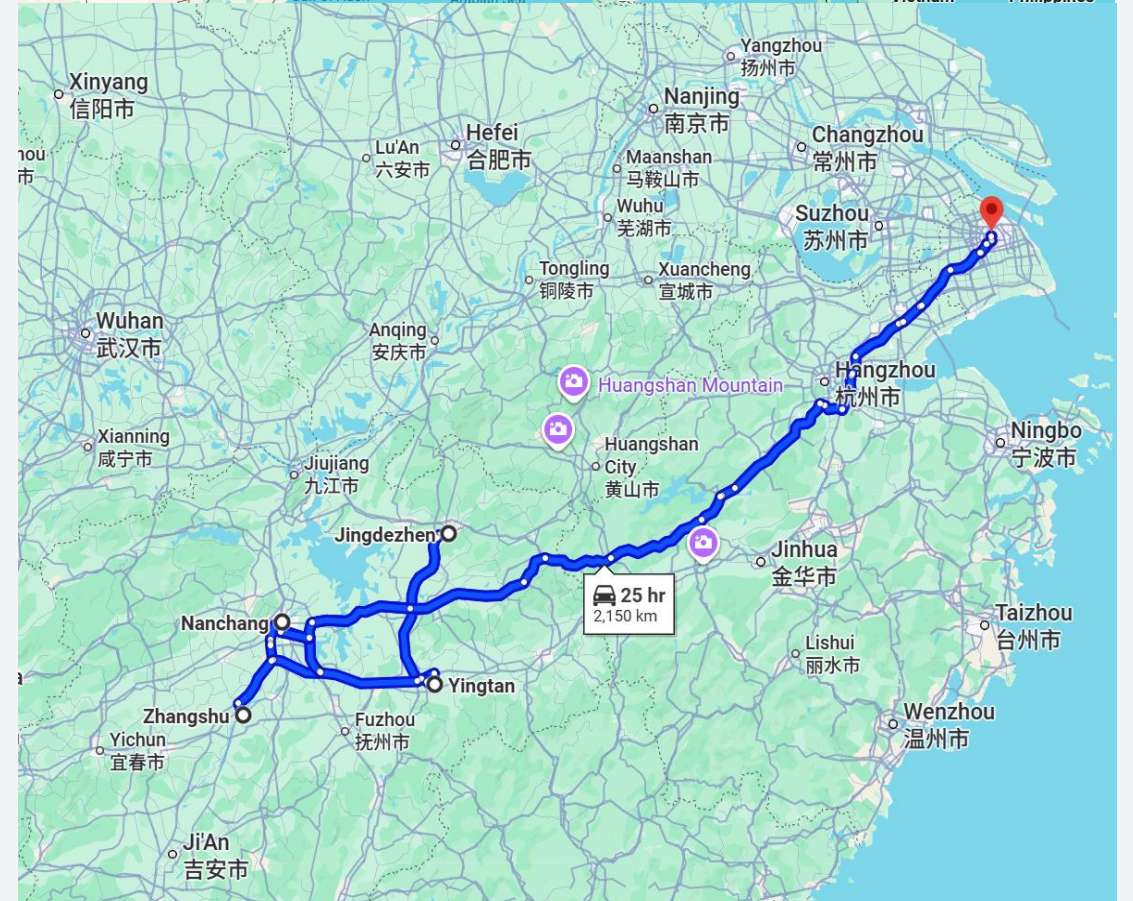

Why YES

The YES program is an integrated information hub that consolidates resources from numerous Chinese educational institutions, including all school levels across China’s different regions, with a view to being an effective mechanism to help students from Overseas campuses to find their ideal overseas programs and opportunities in China. Participants in YES are able to gain cross-cultural competencies in a diverse range of academic settings with hands-on adventures, while engaging in valuable educational experiences that can earn credits.

What Can You Find In YES

The overall program includes short-term exchange programs, international summer school programs, summer/winter camp, semester-long/short term study programs, short-term internship programs, and international students foundation programs and youth forums, etc. Hosted by CEAIE, participating students are able to explore recent social, economic and scientific developments in China while revisiting the five thousand-year history of China and experiencing its unique cultural and geographical richness.

Jiangxi Province

Jiangxi Province lies on the southern bank of the Yangtze River's lower and middle sections. It has an area of 166,900 sq km and a population of 39.66 million. Nanchang is the provincial capital.

Topography: Jiangxi is high in the south and low in the north. It is bordered by hills and mountains, the land generally sloping towards the Poyang Lake in the north. Hills and mountains account for 60% of the province's landmass.

Tourism: Jiangxi abounds in tourism resources. Nanchang, Jingdezhen, Jiujiang and Ganzhou are important sites of historic and cultural interest. The Poyang Lake, China's largest fresh water lake, offers a sight seldom seen elsewhere when cranes, during their southward migration, arrive in thousands in winter for food and shelters in lakeside reed marshes. All in all, Jiangxi has 450 tourism attractions.

Tai Chi Culture Experience

Tai Chi-Art of the Harmony

The philosophical root of Tai Chi comes from the Yin-Yang theory in the I Ching (Book of Changes). Yin and Yang represent two fundamental forces in the universe—Yin (soft, still, dark) and Yang (hard, dynamic, bright)—which depend on and transform into each other, maintaining balance and harmony in the universe.

Overview of Traditional Chinese Medicine (Lecture)

Traditional Chinese medicine, Zhong Yi, is a therapy and a theory on how to stay healthy. Diagnosis in Zhong Yi comes from various forms of observation, including visual, auditory, olfactory, tactile and questioning. The doctor observes a patient's tongue, voice, inquires about the patient's habits and medical history, and feels the patient's pulse to make a diagnosis.
